Description:

Rowan Lea is a traditional three bedroom extended former croft house located in the peaceful village of Staffin on Skye's Trotternish Peninsula boasting widespread views over the surrounding countryside towards the Trotternish Ridge and Quiraing.

Rowan Lea is a traditional three bedroom former croft house, and police station, set within generous garden grounds in the ever popular village of Staffin with views towards the Trotternish Ridge. The property has been extended to create additional living space but it still retains much of its traditional features such as deep window sills, 1/4 panel doors and V-lining.

The accommodation within is set out over two floors and comprises of: entrance hall, lounge, sitting room, kitchen, utility and porch the ground floor with three double bedrooms and bathroom located on the first floor. The property further benefits from double glazing, electric central heating. There are original, open fireplaces in the lounge and sitting room and an electric Rayburn in the kitchen.

Externally the property is set within fully enclosed garden grounds extending to approximately 0.16 acres or thereby (to be confirmed by title deeds) which are mainly laid to lawn with established shrubs and bushes. An additional area of garden ground of approximately 0.23 acres (to be confirmed by title deeds) is located on the opposite of the road. Parking is available to the side of the property on the driveway. Rowan Lea presents a fantastic opportunity to purchase a traditional cottage situated in a peaceful location close to all the attractions the area has to offer.
